Holmston Primary, Ayr

Also known as Smiths Charity School and Smiths Institution. School endowed by late Captain John Smith, Shipmaster, Newton on Ayr. It was managed by provost, magistrates and minister of Ayr. It was established in 1817 as feuhold property in perpetuity. Buildings erected 1836. Disposition and assignation by George Charter and William Cowan, trustees of late John Smith 6 May 1817 recorded Sheriff Court Books 25 November 1825 for education of poor children from burgh. Teachers (1855) James Dobbie aged 39, (1863) Duncan Martin Doak aged 22 previously taught at Blairs Iron Works School, Dalry.

On the 100th anniversary of the present building in 1984, each child received a silver plated spoon with a model of the school on top and 100 yr printed on the bowl. The school have the original will of Captain Smith who donated money for the education of poor children in Ayr. In 1825 the interest on £2,000 was used to pay the teacher. The class was held in the poorhouse. Later in the 1840's a school was built in Smith Street, Ayr and was known as Smith's Institution. The present building was occupied in January 1884. Other records are also incorporated into this collection from other private collections.
