Gr1/17*Chartularies

A chartulary (also called Pancarta and Codex Diplomaticus), is a medieval manuscript volume or roll (rotulus) containing transcriptions of original documents relating to the foundation, privileges and legal rights of an organisation or body; in this case, the Burgh of Irvine. The term is sometimes applied to collections of original documents bound in one volume or attached to one another so as to form a roll

Gr1/4 Local Authority Minutes

In 1870 the Magistrates and Town Council were appointed the Local Authority in place of the Parochial Board which had responsibility for relief of the poor and public health issues including removal of nuisances, water supply, construction of sewers, and control of infectious diseases. The existing Inspector of the Poor was appointed as the new Sanitary Inspector. The following minute books record the discussions and decisions taken by the appointed members regarding sanitary and poverty issues within Burgh of Irvine. These matters are also recorded in less detail within the main Town Council Minute Books. See also the CO3/40 series of records which cover the same responsibilities for the wider area of the Parish of Irvine.

Gr1/7*Dean of Guild Court

Dean of Guild Courts developed from merchant guilds, where the Dean of Guild had jurisdiction over certain aspects of burgh life including trade and commerce, regulation of weights and measures, property boundaries and good neighbourhood. By the nineteenth century the Dean of Guild became the building control authority in Scottish Burghs and anyone intending to build had to submit a plan for approval to the court. Dean of Guild Courts continued as the building control authorities in burghs until 1975, when the Local Government (Scotland) Act 1973, abolished burghs.
